TAUMAUURI

Call for papers for the Waikato Law Review 2020 (Volume 27)

Submissions are now open for the publication of papers in the Waikato Law Review. Please send your submissions by 31 October 2019. The submission guidelines are set out below. You are most welcome to distribute this invitation to any colleagues who would be interested in submitting a paper for publication in the journal.

Volume 27 of the Waikato Law Review will have a special focus on Public International Law and submissions are invited regarding any aspect or subject area within the field of Public International Law.

The special focus of the 2020 issue of the journal reflects the Faculty's research expertise and interest in this field generally (and within the areas of Antarctica, Armed Conflict, Foreign Investment, Humanitarian Law, Human Rights, International Criminal Law, International Environmental Law, International Trade, Law of the Sea, and Space Law in particular).

Submission guidelines

The Waikato Law Review encourages the publication of articles that align with the founding principles of Te Piringa – Faculty of Law: biculturalism, professionalism, and law in context. The Editorial Committee seeks articles that are timely and provide an original in-depth analysis of a topic.

Submitted papers must not have been published elsewhere (in electronic or print format) and must not be simultaneously under consideration by another journal or publishing company. Papers received are blind peer-reviewed and must receive a positive evaluation in order to be accepted for publication in the journal.

Articles should be within the range of 8,000-12,000 words including footnotes. Longer papers may be considered for publication in exceptional circumstances.

Comments on case law from superior courts or international courts and tribunals, or legislation should not exceed 8,000 words including footnotes.

Citations: Papers submitted for consideration should comply with either the New Zealand Law Style Guide (available online at: <http://www.lawfoundation.org.nz/> ) or OSCOLA 4th Edition.

Form: Papers should be submitted by email in Microsoft Word format to the Editor-in-Chief (as per the email contact details below).

Author details: The title page of the paper should include the author's name, academic and professional affiliations and any other relevant personal details (e.g. email address). Authors must also provide the Editor-in-Chief with their postal and email address details and telephone number for correspondence purposes when submitting their papers for consideration.

Correspondence concerning submissions should be addressed (by email) to the Editor-in-Chief:
